Code of Conduct

The James Hardiman Library seeks to provide all users with a welcoming, comfortable and safe environment that is conducive to learning and research. In order to maintain such an environment, we require that all users follow the Library's Code of Conduct and show respect for the needs of others. Violators of the Code may be asked to leave the Library and may be refused future access.

Library Environment:

- Users are required to carry their University student or staff ID Card with them to gain entry to the Library. These, and any other Library ID Card, must be used only by the person to whom it was issued.
- Instructions of library staff should be followed at all times, and a failure to do so may result in a user being asked to leave the Library, and such user at the discretion of the Library may be refused future access.
- Only drinks in spill-proof mugs or capped plastic water bottles are permitted in the Library. No other food or beverages are allowed. Anyone entering the Library with food or unlidded drinks may be asked to leave.
- Bags may be allowed into the Library at the discretion of Library staff and may be searched on exit.
- Mobile phones must be set to silent on entering the Library so as to ensure a quiet study space for all. If it is necessary to use your phone you may do so only on the emergency stairs at the southern or Áras na Gaeilge end of the Library building.
- Silence must be observed in all parts of the Library but particularly in the Silent Study Zones. Group Study Rooms are available for group work.
- Places may not be reserved in the Library. Any place left unattended for longer than 1 hour, in peak periods, may be cleared by Library staff or another user. Please see our Study Break Policy for further details. The Library will not be responsible for any personal property left unattended, mislaid or stolen.
- Smoking is not permitted anywhere within the Library.
- Use of the Library as a filming or photographic location must be approved in advance with the University Librarian's Office.

Library Safety and Security:

- Users are responsible for their personal property at all times, and should never leave personal items unattended. The Library is not liable for loss or damage to personal property.
- Animals are not allowed in the Library, with the exception of registered guide dogs.
- Users must not vandalise or damage Library equipment or furniture.

- Users may not enter unauthorised areas of the Library or remain in the Library when the facility is closed to the public.
- Users are required to leave the Library at closing, during emergency situations and evacuations.
- Users may not use power plugs in locations where their use leads to trailing flexes and tripping hazards.

Library Materials:

- Library materials or equipment may not be taken from the Library without proper checkout or authorisation. Library materials must be returned on or by the loan due date or upon request by the Library. Fines are charged on overdue items.
- Library materials may not be concealed in the Library for the exclusive use of an individual or group of users.
- Library materials must not be mutilated, defaced or damaged in any way. This includes but is not limited to marking, underlining or writing on pages, removing pages or portion of pages, removing anti-theft devices, or applying sticky notes.
- Use of Library computers is governed by the Information Solutions and Services PC Suite Guidelines and by the University's Code of Conduct for computing resources. Library computers may not be used for any other activities except for those directly relating to university and library research and learning.
- Electronic resources available through the Library are licensed for non-commercial use by NUI Galway staff and students and on-site users for education or research purposes only. Use of the data retrieved is not permitted for consultancy or services leading to the commercial use of the data. Moreover, passwords should never be shared.
- Users must observe applicable intellectual property laws and Copyright legislation when photocopying, scanning, photographing, printing or downloading from information resources in print or electronic format.
- Final year examination results may be withheld until all books on loan have been returned and outstanding fines paid.

E-Resources Usage Policy

Increasingly the scholarly information resources that the Library makes available to you are provided online as e-resources, e.g. 300,000 e-books and 70,000 e-journals. These resources are acquired for you under license and it is essential that all NUI Galway staff and students comply with the terms of those licenses regarding of how those resources can be used.

As a current member of the NUI Galway faculty, staff or student body it is generally acceptable to:

Use the Library's subscribed e-resources for scholarly, educational or scientific research, teaching, private study and clinical purposes

Make a limited number of electronic copies of material for personal non-commercial use

Share single copies of articles with other individual current NUI Galway faculty staff and students

Link to specific content hosted on the publisher's/vendor's site

It is not acceptable to:

Download large amounts of material in a systematic manner (e.g. entire books or journal issues, or large-scale downloading from e-resources to create a body of data somewhere else)

To use robots, spiders or intelligent agents to access, search and/or systematically download from these resources

Use content from e-resources for commercial purposes, re-publish, redistribute or alter content

Remove, alter or obscure the copyright notice

In any way make content from e-resources available to non-NUI Galway current users, for example:

- by posting fulltext content online on any website, listserv, mailing list, etc.
- by forwarding via email or storage device any fulltext material contained in an e-resource.
- by sharing your Campus Account login credentials to allow others to login with the potential of accessing the Library's subscribed e-resources

Use e-resource content for other purposes that violate NUI Galway guidelines

Many licenses prohibit the downloading and posting of licensed content on another server, even if for use in secure sites like BlackBoard. In general, it is required to create a link in a course module that points back to the original publisher/vendor website

You are encouraged to look for the "Terms of Use" link (or similar) found at many resources for more specific information regarding standard Fair Usage guidelines of e-resources. You should also familiarise yourself with the NUI Galway ICT Regulations.

It is the responsibility of every member of the NUI Galway staff and student body to ensure their Campus Account Credentials are not used in breach of any terms and conditions listed above. Be aware that claiming lack of awareness of the above Usage Policy does not constitute an excuse for lack of adherence.

Publishers and vendors automatically monitor use of e-resources to ensure that the terms of use are being adhered to. Breach of license will cause the vendor to block the entire community of NUI Galway from accessing these resources.

Additionally, any person who violates the terms and conditions of the Library's E-Resources Usage Policy as outlined above may find themselves subject to NUI Galway disciplinary pro disciplinary procedures.
